Library Rules.

Books will be issued once each week. All prisoners except those hereinafter specified may order one book each week. Books may be retained two weeks by notifying the canvasser, but a second book will not be provided.

2. All orders for books must be given the canvasser. No books will be given from the Library on personal application.

3. Order books by number only. Select three books in the order of their preference and if all three books are out, effort will be made to provide a volume of similar character.

4. Failure to receive a book must be reported to the canvassers. You are held responsible for all books delivered to you.

5. Prisoners on the "Black List" are not permitted to order books.

6. Tearing, marking or defacing books in any manner, is strictly forbidden. Violations entails suspension of Library privilege for three months for first offense and total suspension during the offender's term, for second.

7. Exchanging books is forbidden. Violation of this regulation will result in the offender being placed on the "Black List."

Canvassers cognizant of said violation and failing to report same, are equally culpable and subject to discipline.

M. L. Brown, Warden.

MAGAZINES.

Magazines will be given to the prisoners one night in each week. They must be kept clean and not torn or defaced and no pictures must be cut out. Any inmate who violates this rule will be placed on "Black List" and no reading matter will be furnished. This rule is imperative and must be obeyed.
